SIMPLY A CRIME

It is to be hoped that there will be no confirmation of the rumor that General Stoessel and Admiral Nebogoff are to be shot for their lack of success in the war between Russia and Japan. It is true that General Stoessel surrendered Port Arthur, and he may have done so before he reached the last and utter extremity. It may be equally true that Admiral Nebogoff's conduct during the final sea fight was not free from reproach, but the execution of these men would be received by the civilized world with a feeling of reprobation and horror. The condition of Russia's naval and military forces was such as to sap the courage of a hero and to cause him to look upon his own Government as his most dangerous foe. The warships that were destroyed in the last act of the drama, the floating death-traps with explosive boilers and inextinguishable ammunition were warships only in name, while the army had been reduced to a similar state of incompetence by the greedy rascality of the men who should have made it their chief care. Russia cannot hide her own shortcomings by such a crime as her Government is said to contemplate. She can only add to them and accentuate them.—Sacramento Record Union.

 The Southern cotton planters, entirely unprotected by the tariff, are quite prosperous and are organizing to protect themselves from the protected monopolists. How do the Republican standpatters explain this prosperity of the unprotected
